A: I'm not sure that moving your "Patch Files" will fix the issue. It might be related to your Windows (7 or 8) folder that is in conflict with "Program Files" folder (or "Program Files (x86)" in your case), and not related to your Windows updates. You can try moving your "Patch Files" folder to another place on your PC, and see if that fixes your problem. This is because any folder in your profile path could cause the issue of Program Files being in conflict with user settings or other folder.

Q: Display all nodes not just one I have a content type with fields: Text (Title) Number (Affected) Text (Threshold) Node Reference (Examine) All 4 fields have rules that creates and conditions that removes nodes. Only the Threshold field is disabled. I have 2 requirements: -When node is created, open the View called Node and Add the node. -When the Threshold field is filled, add all nodes that have the field filled with value above the Threshold. How can this be accomplished?

A: The Rules module comes in handy here. In summary: Create a custom action that copies the node. Create a rule that runs when the node is being created. It should do this using the "operation" parameter. In this case the operation is called "my_node_new" or whatever you name the action. Create a rule that runs whenever a node is being updated, and make sure to set the operation to "my_node_update". Create a rule that runs whenever a node is being deleted, and make sure to set the operation to "my_node_delete". Now, when you create a new node, the nodes that are created should be available for you to use in your views. When a threshold is met, the action on your rules will be executed, resulting in the deletion of nodes, depending on the rules settings.

Directions Place onion in a food processor with herbs, and blend until minced. Add garlic and pulse to mix. Add remaining ingredients to the food processor. Process until thoroughly combined and smooth. To Assemble: Cut avocado in half, remove seed. Place in bowl and mash to desired consistency. Add mayo and blend with a hand mixer until smooth.
